Abstract: An essay is presented that discusses philosopher Charles Sanders Peirce's proposed solutions to the Liar Paradox (LP), which involves the apparently self-contradictory assertion that one's group is a group of liars. It is said that he developed solutions in 1865 and 1869, both of which he rejected. Topics include the nature of the truth and falsehood of propositions, the notions of assertion and assent, and Peirce's theory of truth.
