Record in the Commens Bibliography. Retrieved from http://www.commens.org/bibliography/journal_article/bellucci-francesco-2015-exploring-peirces-speculative-gramma r-immediate, 26.11.2025.

Type: Article in Journal

Author: Bellucci, Francesco

Title: Exploring Peirce's speculative grammar: The immediate object of a sign

Year: 2015

Journal: Sign Systems Studies

Volume: 43 Issue: 4

Pages: 399-415

Keywords: Immediate Object, Dynamical Object

Abstract: The paper argues against what I call the "Fregean interpretation" of Peirce's distinction between the immediate and the dynamic object of a sign, according to which Peirce's dynamic object is akin to Frege's Bedeutung, while Peirce's immediate object is akin to Frege's Sinn. After having exposed the Fregean interpretation, I briefly reconstruct the genesis of Peirce's notion of immediate object in his semiotic writings of the years 1904-1909 and defend the view that, according to Peirce, only propositions have immediate objects.

ISSN: 14064243

DOI: 10.12697/SSS.2015.43.4.02

Language: English