

Record in the Commens Bibliography. Retrieved from http://www.commens.org/bibliography/journal\_article/parmentier-richard-j-2014-semiotic-degeneracy-social-life-prolegomenon, 23.05.2026.

---

Type: Article in Journal
Author: Parmentier, Richard J.
Title: Semiotic degeneracy of social life: Prolegomenon to a human science of semiosis
Year: 2014
Journal: Semiotica
Volume: 2014
Issue: 202
Pages: 1-20
Keywords: Semiosis, Degeneracy, Replication, Social Science, Humanities, Scientific Imperialism
Abstract: This paper explores Peirce's method of semiotic exemplification by a careful examination of his thinking about the relationship between interpretation and replication, the subdivision of signs into genuine and degenerate classes, and the role of logically necessary systems of representation in guiding the growth of scientific knowledge. Examples of Peirce's forays into topics usually treated within the social sciences and humanities demonstrate both the imperialism and the delimitation of his semiotic method.
Language: English