Record in the Commens Bibliography. Retrieved from http://www.commens.org/bibliography/journal_article/parmentier-richard-j-2014-semiotic-degeneracy-social-life-prolegomenon, 24.11.2025.

Type: Article in Journal

Author: Parmentier, Richard J.

Title: Semiotic degeneracy of social life: Prolegomenon to a human science of semiosis

Year: 2014

Journal: Semiotica

Volume: 2014 Issue: 202

Pages: 1-20

Keywords: Semiosis, Degeneracy, Replication, Social Science, Humanities, Scientific

Imperialism

Abstract: This paper explores Peirce's method of semiotic exemplification by a careful examination of his thinking about the relationship between interpretation and replication, the subdivision of signs into genuine and degenerate classes, and the role of logically necessary systems of representation in guiding the growth of scientific knowledge. Examples of Peirce's forays into topics usually treated within the social sciences and humanities demonstrate both the imperialism and the delimitation of his semiotic method.

Language: English