Object

[A sign] must be determined to correspond, according to some principle, and by some species of causation, with something else, called its Object. In a word, whether physically, rationally, or otherwise directly or indirectly, its Object, as agent, acts upon the sign, as patient.

References: MS [R] 283

Date of Quote: 1905

URL: http://www.commens.org/dictionary/entry/quote-basis-pragmaticism-5