Nominalism

The whole endeavor to deny the irreducibility of triadic facts may be termed Nominalism. Strictly speaking, what the nominalists deny is the real existence of anything general, that is, of anything which wholly applies to many different things.

References: MS [R] 717:9
Date of Quote: 1893-5 [c.]
URL: http://www.commens.org/dictionary/entry/quote-chapter-ii-categories-0