Dyadic Relation

A dyadic relation is a general character of dyads, or ordered pairs. [—] A genuine dyadic relation is one which does not consist in the two members of any dyad between which it subsists having certain qualities.

References: MS [R] 27:5

Date of Quote: 1905-07 [c.]

URL: http://www.commens.org/dictionary/entry/quote-considerations-concerning-doctrine-multitude-1