Term: Concept
Quote: The word pragmatism was invented to express a certain maxim of logic, which, as was shown at its first enouncement, involves a whole system of philosophy. The maxim is intended to furnish a method for the analysis of concepts. A concept is something having the mode of being of a general type which is, or may be made, the rational part of the purport of a word. A more precise or fuller definition cannot here be attempted.

References: CP 8.191
Date of Quote: 1904 [c.]
URL: http://www.commens.org/dictionary/entry/quote-draft-review-herbert-nichols-treatise-cosmology-vol-1-cp-1