Object

By the Object of a Sign, as the term is used by the present writer, is meant that to which the Sign applies but which it does not express otherwise than through some other Sign, or through collateral experience, or through an indication of how the interpreter of it may proceed in order to identify it.

References: MS [R] 640:9
Date of Quote: 1909
URL: http://www.commens.org/dictionary/entry/quote-essays-meaning-preface-1