Term: Symbol
Quote: [Symbols are] signs which represent their objects simply because they will be so understood, or arbitrary signs. [—] The denotation of a symbol is always definitely general, that is it stands for any object its interpreter may choose provided it be of a certain description, and not merely for some unspecified object of that description which its utterer may have in mind.

References: MS [R] 842:33-34
Date of Quote: 1908 [c.]
URL: http://www.commens.org/dictionary/entry/quote-neglected-argument-reality-god-g-6