Disquiparance

Which is the more primitive (or fundamental, or simple) form of relation, that of an Equiparance (i.e. a reciprocal relation), or that of a Disquiparance? I say that it is the Disquiparance, or rather, it is the Opponency, or relation of which a specialization may be a Disquiparance.

References: NEM 4:325
Date of Quote: 1906-7
URL: http://www.commens.org/dictionary entry/quote-pap-ed-7