Experience

An experience [...] is a single event, or is an expectation of it; and no sum of single objects can make up a general. An experience, or the generalization of experiences, seems to me to be rather the object determining a concept than the meaning determined by it.

References: MS [R] 319:8

Date of Quote: 1907

URL: http://www.commens.org/dictionary/entry/quote-pragmatism-85