Universe of Discourse

The universe of discourse is the aggregate of the individual objects which "exist," that is are independently side by side in the collection of experiences to which the deliverer and interpreter of a set of symbols have agreed to refer and to consider.