Habit

...a habit (using the word in such a sense as not to exclude a natural disposition) is nothing but a rule so impressed upon a man's nature that he tends to act according to it, when opposing influences are not too strong.