Immediate Inference

9

A complete argument, with only one premiss, is called an immediate inference. Example: All crows are black birds; therefore, all crows are birds.