Title: 42nd Annual Meeting of the Semiotic Society of America

Description: The Play of Signs / The Signs of Play

This year's conference theme intends to celebrate our vibrant host country, Mexico, and the long-standing importance of the concept of play to semiotics. From Charles Sanders Peirce's "play of musement" to Jacques Derrida's "play of signifiers" to Vygotsky's foray into the semiotics of play in learning and development, the phenomenon of play proves to be an essential concept in theory and practice. Because of the interdisciplinary nature and scope of play (we find research on play in psychology, anthropology, philosophy, sociology, communication, music, theatre, visual design, game studies, literary studies, education, mass communication, advertising, and culture studies, for example), the play of signs and the signs of play seeks to stimulate a host of possible research questions for attendees to consider. How is play semiotically constituted in each of these areas of research? How is semiosis a function of play and imagination? What are the inter-relationships between play, ritual, festival, and the symbolic? In what ways do signs/play have a transgressive or subversive function? How do signs play, so to speak, with other signs? Our semiotic investigations into the significant interrelationships of play and signs should lend productive insights, meaningful discussions, and plenty of opportunity for serious play.

As always, we welcome abstracts on any subject with a connection to semiotics (both theoretical and applied), not solely those inspired by this year's theme. We encourage you to reach out to your semiotically-inclined colleagues by organizing thematic sessions or panels, as well as submitting individual papers and posters. Our Society is interdisciplinary and international, and we welcome voices from all communities, especially this year from our Central and South American colleagues. We intend to reserve panel slots specifically for papers from non-English speakers, although the official language of the conference is English.

Please visit EasyChair at <https://easychair.org/conferences/?conf=2017ssa> to submit your abstract or proposal for panels and poster sessions. If you have any problems accessing the website, please contact us. (Note to our non-English speakers: while papers may be submitted in your native language, all abstracts must be submitted in English.) Because of the anticipated larger than normal participation this year, we encourage early submissions. The deadline for submissions is May 31, 2017. Please include the following information in your submission:

- Author's name
- Institutional affiliation and academic status
- Email address
- Title of abstract (in English)
- A maximum of 150 word abstract (in English)
- Keywords (maximum of six words in English)

Abstracts for individual papers or panels and organized sessions (3-4 papers) as well as poster presentations must include all of the above information. Papers are for a 20-minute presentation. An acknowledgment of receipt of your abstract will be sent to you within two weeks from the date of submission. Electronic letters of acceptance will be sent to the selected participants starting March 1, 2017, and will continue until June 30, 2017.

Papers presented at the meeting will also be considered for publication in Semiotics 2017, the Yearbook of the Semiotic Society of America. The SSA Yearbook is an annual peer-reviewed publication series sponsored by the Semiotic Society of America, providing both a timely overview of current developments in semiotic research and a regular outlet for members of the Society to publish papers on their current work. Further details and deadlines will be specified in the Annual Meeting Program.

Student submissions are eligible for the Roberta Kevelson Award which will honor the best student paper presented at the 2017 Annual Meeting. Students who wish to be considered for the Kevelson Award should indicate their interest on EasyChair at the time of abstract submission. Full paper submissions must be uploaded to EasyChair by September 25, 2017. Questions regarding the Roberta Kevelson Award should be directed to the review committee chair, Dr. Frank Macke at [fmacke \[at\] bellsouth.net](mailto:fmacke@bellsouth.net).
